Jane Doe Inc. publishes a variety of resources for counselors, advocates, trainers, and others working in the anti-sexual and domestic violence movement.

Private Nightmares, Public Secrets: Sexual Assault by Intimate Partners (1999)

Intimate partner sexual assault is a little-understood and complex form of violence, and providing education about this issue can be challenging. This 40-page manual is a guide for developing presentations for groups on the topic of sexual assault by intimate partners. It includes handouts, notes for trainers, and overhead materials.

Sexual Assault, Domestic Violence and HIV/AIDS: Services, Safety and Resources (2006)

Survivors of sexual assault and domestic violence face many challenges in their recovery and healing processes, one of which can be the risk of acquiring HIV. This guide provides information on sexual assault, domestic violence, HIV transmission, prevention, counseling, testing, and care; examines effective strategies and responses which can be used by advocates; and considers plans to build partnerships with sexual assault/domestic violence advocate/counselors and HIV providers in their communities for enhanced survivor services.

Sexual Assault Training Curriculum for New Counselors and Advocates (2003, revised 2009)

This comprehensive 15-session training curriculum is designed to serve as the foundation for training counselors and advocates at Rape Crisis Centers in Massachusetts. It includes: interactive sessions on serving survivors from diverse communities, counseling theory and skills, providing medical and legal advocacy, primary prevention and much more! Each session includes notes for trainers, overhead slides, and handouts. This three-binder set also includes a Facilitator's Guide with an overview of the curriculum as a whole, role-plays, case studies, sample documents, and additional resources.

Supporting Survivors of Sexual Assault: A Journey to Justice, Health, and Healing (revised 2009)

This training manual complements the Sexual Assault Training Curriculum for New Counselors and Advocates and is designed to be used as a text accompanying the training sessions for all new counselors and advocates at rape crisis centers in Massachusetts. The content addresses the diverse needs of sexual assault survivors. It is also intended to serve as a resource and reference for community members and professionals who may be in a position to provide support to survivors.

The Power of Education: Presentation Skills Training (revised 2006) (formerly the Power of Prevention)

Community education is a critical piece of anti-sexual and domestic violence work, but educators often receive no additional training in presentation skills. This training manual provides a framework for training sexual assault and domestic violence educators in presentation skills and techniques. It includes sections on preparing for a presentation, organizing presentation content, developing speaking skills, overcoming nervousness about public speaking, handling audience questions and challenges, and more. It can be used to develop workshops on presentation skills for staff, volunteers, board members and survivors. This six-chapter manual includes training modules with notes for trainers, handouts, and overhead materials.

Untold Stories, Unmet Needs: Meeting the Needs of Survivors with Disabilities (revised 2004)

Serving survivors of sexual and domestic violence with disabilities can be challenging, and many service providers feel unprepared to meet the unique needs of survivors with disabilities. This multi-session curriculum will help service providers gain the knowledge and skills necessary to serve survivors with physical, cognitive, developmental, and psychiatric disabilities. It addresses the needs of survivors with disabilities in a context of promoting a social justice and anti-oppression framework.
