Economic Empowerment Resource Directory A Guide for Advocates

Welcome to the Jane Doe Inc. (JDI) Economic Empowerment Resource Directory! This guide was developed for advocates to utilize when working with victims and survivors impacted by sexual and domestic violence on issues related to advancing their financial goals. Each survivor faces unique circumstances and, as a result, their path toward economic self-sufficiency will vary. The resources compiled in this directory are intended to introduce the reader to the breadth of topics of economic empowerment and offer helpful stepping-stones for survivors who are on the path to economic independence.

Each section contains national, statewide, and local resources, including resource descriptions, web sites and other contact information. The resources are examples of what is available and are not definitive listings; their inclusion in this directory does not constitute an endorsement. There is also information on culturally specific resources.

We hope that the information found here is useful for advocates working with survivors on their path to economic empowerment. For a list of Jane Doe Inc. member programs and other service providers, go to http://www.janedoe.org/find\_help/search. These programs are here to support survivors at any point in their journey to healing.

Note: JDI has checked this information carefully and believed that is accurate as of June 2018.. However, things sometimes change. If you have any questions about the information or if you have useful resources, please contact us at info@janedoe.org

I. Tools for Advocates

Economic resources are often the most important piece of getting free from abuse and advancing financial goals for survivors. This section is for advocates to use these tools to assist survivors in their quest to gain economic independence. As always meet survivors where they are and recognize that financial empowerment may not be their primary concern.

National

360degrees of Financial Literacy | <http://www.360financialliteracy.org>

This free resource for individuals on personal finance (provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants). Topics are organized by stage in life and one's situation (college student, military personnel etc.). Additionally, users can submit specific questions to receive a response, but the agency does not provide individual consultation.

Consumer Rights for Domestic Violence Survivors Initiative | <https://csaj.org/crdvsi>

This initiative offers information for survivors on various economic topics including: debt collection defense, credit discrimination, bankruptcy actions, utility assistance, repairing and building credit. For those working with survivors, the Center for Survivor Agency and Justice, offers a consumer rights toolkit to help gauge economic circumstances.

My Money | www.mymoney.gov

MyMoney.gov is the U.S. government's website dedicated to teaching all Americans the basics about financial education. There is information from over 20 different Federal web sites in one place. Content is organized by where you are in life ("Life Events"), who you are ("My Resources"), and by specific hands-on tools ("Tools").

Moving Ahead Curriculum | <https://www.purplepurse.com/>

The curriculum was developed by The Allstate Foundation in partnership with the National Network to End Domestic Violence, and has been academically validated by Rutgers University. The information in this course is intended to be general advice for those in an abusive relationship. It contains specific information pertaining to finances when ending an abusive relationship and for personal and financial safety after the relationship is over. It also includes information on managing misuse of financial records.

Poverty and Sexual Violence: Building Prevention and Intervention Responses - A Guide for Counselors and Advocates | <http://www.pcar.org/sites/default/files/file/poverty.pdf>

This guide has been developed by Pennsylvania Coalition Against Rape, a guide for advocates and counselors with resources, information and tools on assisting survivors with financial literacy and stability.

Their programs serve women, high school students, veterans and seniors. Their priorities include closing the wage gap, increasing access to financial education, improving college affordability and investing in STEM careers and education.

II. Careers and Employment

As advocates of survivors of sexual assault and domestic violence, we undoubtedly recognize that wherever the trauma survivors may be facing can affect their ability to obtain and maintain employment. Whether because of the need for time off for court appearances or medical attention. At the same time, as advocates, we know how critical access to income is for survivors. In this section, we provide you with resources to assist survivors with employment related issues.
